

SIMPLIFIED IFVG SETUP

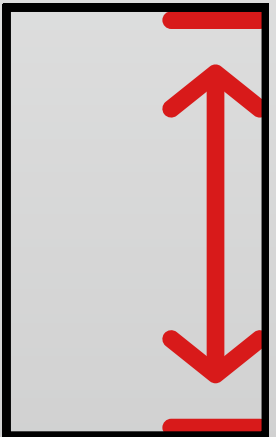

The iFVG is an incredible model but lots of traders get lost with so many things to consider before taking a setup. After gathering data on my own trades, these are the things I look for in order to take only the best setups that give me an 85% winrate.

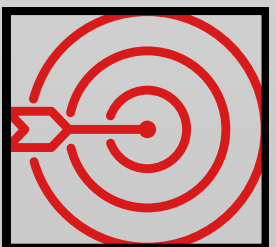

LIQUIDITY SWEEP

LIQUIDITY SWEEP

Liquidity Sweep: Identify a swing high or swing low on the 5 minute time frame that has previously bounced or rejected from a fair value gap.

Any time frame lower than this will lower the probability of success.

Waiting for a sweep on a 5 minute time frame allows me to be patient and ignore lower probability setups that may trigger.

In the 1 minute example you can see the trade setup occurred but failed.

DELIVERY

Delivery: Pairing my entry time frame with a matching Delivery time frame is usually preferred (ex. 30 second inverse delivering out of a 30 second fvg). If there is no matching time frame, I will look at other higher/lower time frames for delivery.

If there is no delivery from at least one time frame I will not even consider taking the trade. This helps me feel confident in the setups I'm taking.

As an example, this is a 30s inverse setup...

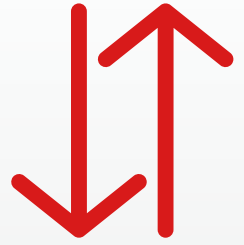

and it's delivering from this 30s bearish FVG.

FVG SIZE

FVG Size: I require my iFVG setups to be a minimum of 9 points or more. This is a very simple and over looked method that will help a lot with filtering out low probability setups.

This is an example of a big enough gap (I use the measure tool in TradingView; hold SHFT+click)

This one's a no-go for me and I'd wait for a better setup later

TARGETS

Targets: I need to have clear, obvious targets. Normally in the form of trendline liquidity, relative or perfect equal highs and lows, and intermediate term Highs/Lows.

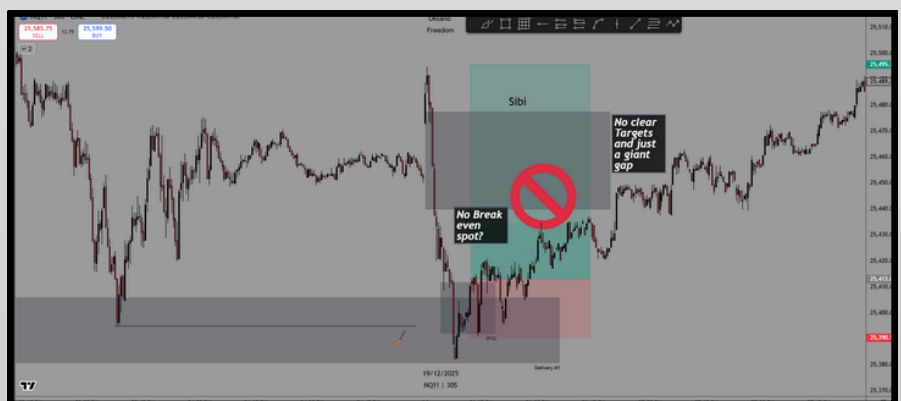

If there is not clear, obvious BE/Take Profit spots I will NOT take the trade.

I love plays that provide a safe break even spot, as this helps my psychology during and when entering trades.

In this one you'll see it technically had all the other requirements for my setup EXCEPT clear targets. Although the play ended up working it would be an uncomfortable hold and also we could reject anywhere from the gaps above.

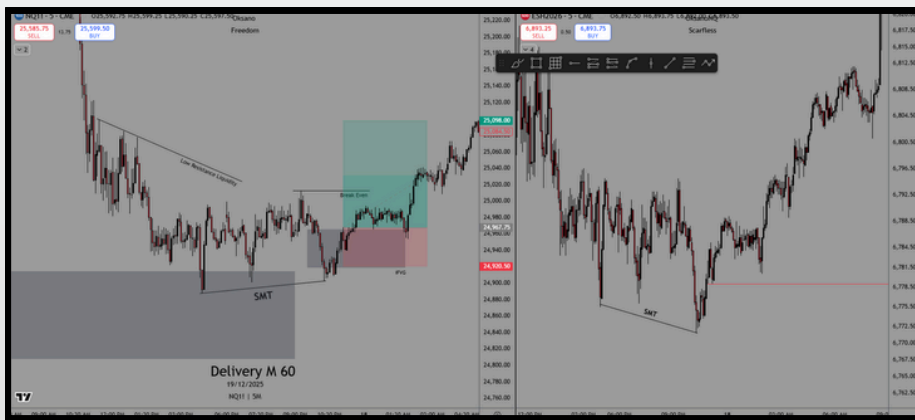

BONUS!

Added Bonus: To add more confidence in a setup I will also include (but not require) an SMT and/or Premium & Discount of a higher time frame range.

Pairing all of my requirements + Having an SMT or being in Premium/Discount of Higher Time Frame is the most high confidence setup I will ever take in the market. These setups are where I find my most consistent and profitable results

This example is the same trade setup but zoomed out to show the setup was also delivering from Premium/Discount of the hourly range.
